"Go On!"

You have cried that at some livery horses and been more tired from beating on the horse when at your journey's end than the animal. To avoid all such, see

R. L. DEDMAN,

THE LIVERYMAN.

Use Bond's Cream FLOUR.

You can can when you can can, but you can not can this time of year, can you? We handle the most complete line of Canned Goods in the city, and can sell you one can as cheap as anyone can.

J. H. DOBSON,
Court Street.

The Shelby Record, in its last issue, copies our statement of the condition of the Lawrenceburg Banks, and, after saying that they make a pretty good showing, proceeds to belittle the showing by making a comparison with the banks of Shelby county, with their deposits of $843,632.57, and "every thing else in proportion."

Brers Shinnick and Willis, in making such comparisons should remember that Shelby is a much larger county than Anderson; that it has nearly twice the population; that it has three great railroads, while we have but one; that Shelby's assessment is $8,704,150, and, with the railroads, banks, etc., will approximate $10,000,000, while Anderson's assessment, including railroads, banks, whiskey and all will hardly reach four millions, and, remembering of these things, should recognize the self-evident fact that the deposits of $576,174.15 in Anderson county banks, and "every thing else in proportion," mean much more than the $843,632.57 in the Shelby banks.

Think again, Brothers, and see if the banks of Lawrenceburg are not in even better condition than those of Shelbyville.

Frank Raymond, who lives near Sparrow, had a valuable horse to fall into a well one night last week, killing itself. Mr. Redman is a poor man, and, as this was his only horse, the loss falls heavily on him.

Mr. John T. Cox, the popular merchant at Sparrow, will soon erect a grist mill at that place.

Owing to the misinterpretation of a letter received by former Manager J. A. Harrison, of the East Tennessee Telephone Co., and the letter and explanation as given to Manager H. L. Seymour, an increase of sixty-five cents on residence 'phones was made last collection day. Complaints were many, and, for awhile, a war was on that looked much like the company would be a heavy loser, as many instruments were ordered out. Mr. Seymour, thinking that some mistake had been made, telephoned the general manager at Nashville, Tenn., regarding the matter, and was told that a great error had been made and to refund all excesses collected, explaining to the subscribers how the mistake was made. Mr. Seymour, being a total stranger, it was hard for him to see his many patrons to adjust matters. At any rate, the above is the exact state of affairs, as learned from him, and was only an accident that would have happened to any one under similar circumstances, and we are glad to place Mr. Seymour and his company right before the people of our little city.

Larger Quarters Needed.

Postmaster Geo. W. Hutcheson tells us that every call and lock box in his office is rented and that more boxes have been ordered, which will require a re-arrangement of the fixtures in his office. Owing to the smallness of the room he is in, it will be quite a problem to figure out where the new boxes will be put. He now has 250 boxes and, as said, all are rented. There are, no doubt, few people in town who know that these boxes, as well as all other fixtures used, has to be owned by the postmaster, and yet Uncle Sam gets all the revenue.

NEWPORT, Ky.—I am in receipt of a copy of your new county paper, IT, and find it to be the most original county paper I have ever had the pleasure of reading. Please find enclosed fifty cents for a year's subscription.

LINTON L. ROBINSON.

Messrs. L. P. Hahn and Jas. Dadisman, of Van Buren, have purchased of Mr. Ed. Stodghill his flouring mill at that place.

Use Bond's Cream FLOUR.

ANSWER THE Question!

"Do you get good and pure Whisky?"

If not, then will you be good enough to call on me when in Harrodsburg and sample the class of goods I handle.

You may think this a very strange way to start an advertisement for a hardware house, but it is in line with other pleasant suggestions we have to make. Take, for instance, our line of Heating and Cooking Stoves, Kitchen Wares and Beautiful China for the Dining-room. Experienced tanners and plumbers await your orders to report for work. Is it not a pleasure to know where all such can be had?
